Judy, is now the matriarch of the Mason family and keeps tabs on all that is happening. Son-in-law retiring from the service and now looking for work (delay in getting military retirement); granddaughter with diabetes who is expecting and has had complications previously and traveling by other members. Along with most of us, also has her own health to deal with.

We appreciate the work she does keeping the various missions going. She also prays daily for Pine Run and is encouraged to hear how God is at work.

David & Dawn (Berry) Degler A Christian Ministry in the National Parks

A Testimony...

A few weeks ago, I was talking with a ParkLife team member who was frustrated. They didn’t feel that their efforts were amounting to much in their park. They weren’t seeing any changes in the people around them or getting to spend time on ministry projects they wanted to do. During our conversation though, they shared so many stories that I saw God’s hand in. I said as much, and the team member said, “That isn’t ministry though...is it?”

When I first got to Glacier Bay National Park for my summer season, I thought I was ready. I had a few rough sermon ideas, I’d been working on my nerves about public speaking, and I had been involved in ministry all my life. If the church doors were open, my family and I were there! I knew how to make ministry work.

The park was small and there weren’t a lot of guests hanging around in the mornings. My teammate and I advertised and invited people, but Sunday after Sunday it was just us at the worship site. I was bummed but also confused. Was I not friendly enough? Could I do something else to make it happen? Where were the people I was supposed to minister to this summer?...

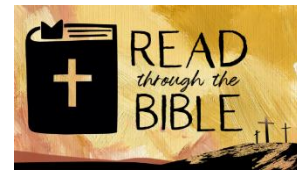

As I spent more time being available, folks started to talk to me about their lives and their struggles, about their deep insecurities and the things that made them ashamed of themselves. And I sat and listened and felt the presence of the Lord in those conversations. I didn’t always bring up a Bible verse. I sat with them and let them know they were seen and still loved.
